

The story of Vecta Design

Lorinda Mamo has said that: "Every great design begins with an even better story." Vecta Design story began on 2006, when two young people decided to sell their apartment and start the first professional manufacture of stretch ceilings in the Baltic countries. Even though the representatives from large manufacturing companies from Poland suggested to choose the reseller position, but Vitalii and Diana had more courage and ambition. The idea came from one Russian construction TV show, where Vitalii saw the stretch ceiling solution that amazed him. They bought the necessary equipment, although they didn't have any skills about how to properly use those machines. One week course in Sankt Petersburg gave him even more enthusiasm to start the production. There were some twenty-four hours testing days in the small production room and many poor quality material jointing tests, but Vitalii doesn't like to give up, neither to accept any quality deficiencies. Finally satisfied with the quality of the production, they started to search the clients and sell their ceiling solutions. Worth mentioning that just a year later the specialist who had trained Vitalii, came to Estonia to learn new techniques from him. Despite the tough start, the purpose of the whole activity ever since has been to create unique and inspiring interior design solutions. So this is where the dedication and willingness to do better can bring one.

Missing engineering education has not been any obstacle to come up with totally brilliant profile design solutions that nobody in this business have ever done before. This is excitement that allows him to find the perfect solution to even the most complex and ambitious project, because there are endless possibilities in the stretch material use and combination with other materials as well as lighting sources. Nowadays Vecta Design offers a complete line of products with many unique profiles and new lighting solutions in combination with excellent quality and variation of stretch ceiling materials. We offer everything one professional needs in order to create modern-day elegant and consistently exciting interior design.

Vecta Design is perfect business partner if You are looking for consistently good quality and sophisticated solutions. It is really easy to create positive emotions – our interior design solutions, that meet Your needs, will make it happen.